Equine Voices Rescue & Sanctuary needs volunteers

Fellow Quail Creek residents, come spend a beautiful day out in the country and learn about the wonderful work Equine Voices does.

As temperatures drop to more comfortable levels, pack your picnic and head just 15 minutes south to visit Equine Voices Rescue & Sanctuary at Jumping Jack Ranch. At the ranch you will be able to meet some of the premarin mares and foals rescued from slaughter by Karen Pomroy, president and owner of Equine Voices. Every horse at the sanctuary has its own story. A story to be continued much more happily than it started. Most horses are awaiting adoption into caring new homes.

If you or someone you know is interested in volunteering, the first Saturday of each month participate at the volunteer orientation and see what Equine Voices Rescue & Sanctuary is all about. Orientation starts at 9:00 am. To make a reservation please contact volunteer coordinator Jackie Cuyler at 520-399-9640 or jackiecuyler@cox.net.

Visitors are also welcome. Please call for an appointment to visit the horses.

Looking forward to seeing you soon.♦
